Cease-Fire Hopes Raised By Harriman

Ambassador Meets Privately With Gromyko On Laos

GENEVA (UPI) — A high American source said Friday night a private meeting between U.S. Ambassador Averell Harriman and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko had brought the prospect of an East-West compromise to break the deadlock over Laos.

The source said British Foreign Secretary Lord Home would fly here Sunday to meet with Gromyko and try to frame the terms of the compromise. Home and Gromyko are co-chairmen of the 14-nation conference on Laos.

Harriman delivered to Gromyko a White House-backed note expressing growing concern over developments in Laos. Then the two men discussed means of breaking the impasse that has tied the Geneva conference into knots.

The compromise, as reported to be shaping up Friday night, included these two broad moves.

An appeal by the Soviet government to Communist-backed forces in Laos to respect the cease-fire strictly and avoid any provocation and incidents. A companion appeal by the west to the Royal Lao government to keep its part of the truce.

A pledge by the opposing sides in Laos to cooperate with the International Control Commission for supervision of the truce in the Southeast Asia kingdom.

U.S. sources said Harriman and Gromyko were "firm" in discussing the stalemate in the month-old conference as they met at Gromyko's Geneva villa.

Gromyko gave the impression he had returned from Moscow with no new plan, but at the same time he appeared eager to keep the conference going, the American source said. Harriman then turned over the note asking Soviet cooperation in getting a valid cease-fire.

The note, drafted by Secretary of State Dean Rusk, was reported to reflect President Kennedy's own concern over Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's failure to support his Vienna stand on an effective cease-fire in Laos.

There was no indication Gromyko had budged an inch, and the belief was growing in diplomatic circles that Communist China may have forced the Soviet premier to back down on his Vienna agreement with Kennedy on the importance of a cease-fire in Laos.

Peiping, in a series of broadcasts, accused the United States of using the Vienna talks as "political blackmail" and said the Communist capture of Padong in a new Red offensive in Laos was inspired by Western movements in Laos.

Gromyko conferred Friday with Chinese Communist Foreign Minister Chen Yi and then received Harriman at his villa for a talk that lasted an hour.

SINKING SCENE — Cross on map locates the approximate position in the Andaman Sea, where the Burmese government motorship Aung Teza sank Wednesday night with a heavy loss of life. Only 40 survivors of 125 persons aboard have been found.

85 Feared Dead In Ship Sinking

RANGOON, Burma (AP) — The Burma government's motorship Aung Teza sank in the Andaman Sea Wednesday night and officials said Friday that 85 of the 125 persons aboard were feared dead.

The other 85 are feared dead, the Government Shipping Board reported.

Ten survivors were reported brought into Moulmein by a fishing vessel. They are four ship's officers, three seamen and three passengers.

The other 30 survivors were reported at Kalagauk Island about 80 miles from Moulmein.

There was no information on the cause of the sinking.

Junta In Korea Starts Reform Campaigns

By SAMUEL KIM

SEOUL (UPI)—South Korea's military junta Friday announced plans to strengthen the nation's defenses, aid students with scholarships, and crack down on prostitution.

As the 32-member council moved to tighten its rule and push through reforms, there were indications of a slight thaw in the initial American coolness to the military leaders who overthrew the ROK civilian government May 16.

Acting Defense Minister Shin Sung Kyun warned of "indirect" aggression and said a new defense policy was under preparation by the junta and would be disclosed soon.

He said the main way to combat indirect aggression was to build up South Korea's economy.

Education Minister Col. Moon Hi Suk of the Korean Marines told student representatives from 66 colleges and universities that they are "the backbone for carrying out the revolutionary tasks."

He said these tasks were "crushing indirect aggression, reformation of human character, elimination of poverty, and cultural revolution."

Moon said the junta was preparing a scholarship fund of more than $300,000 "for able and patriotic students."

Highway Bill Gets Drastic Cuts In Senate

By VINCENT J. BURKE

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Finance Committee voted Friday to give President Kennedy less than half a loaf of the tax program he asked to finance the federal highway construction program on a pay-as-you-go basis.

The committee, headed by Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., agreed with House action which had whittled the tax increases from $300 million to $150 million — and then it lopped off another $24 million.

Kennedy had recommended sharp tax boosts on trucks, diesel fuel and tires to pay for the multi-billion dollar program to build a network of 41,000 miles of highways.

The committee by a 15 to 2 vote however adopted the drastically-reduced measure. Sens. Russell B. Long, D-La., and Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., opposed it. The measure is slated for Senate floor action next Tuesday.

JFK Housing Bill Given Slim Chance

Leaders Express Hope At Restoring 40-Year Mortgages

WASHINGTON (AP) — Modification staved off disaster in the Senate early Friday for President Kennedy's housing proposal for modest-income families. But administration leaders now are hopeful they can restore it in full when the House acts this month.

House administration leaders said "we think we have the votes" to restore the 40-year, no-down payment loans for houses costing up to $15,000 in the form Kennedy proposed.

The Senate Thursday at first voted to knock the whole program out of a $6.1-billion catch-all housing bill. But Democratic leaders won a reversal toward the end of a 13½-hour session. They had to concede an important point, however—as approved by the Senate, the mortgages would require down payments running to $555.

Housing specialists in the House feel the down-payment requirement would seriously limit the use of the program by the families in the $4,000-$6,000 income bracket for which it is intended.

Still they were cheered by the fact that the long-term mortgages, in any form, remained in the Senate bill. This means that even if the House, traditionally more conservative on housing legislation, should knock out the program, it still has a chance of being revived in the conference between the two chambers.

It is taken for granted that the Senate and House will pass different versions of the bill initially and that a conference will be needed to iron out the differences.

The Senate, which finished considering all amendments during its marathon session, votes Monday, with final passage generally conceded. The House Rules Committee considers Thursday the House version already approved by the Banking Committee.

Democratic Leader John W. McCormack of Massachusetts said that if the Rules Committee clears the bill, as expected, he will call it up for action in the House the following week.

U.S. Splits With Allies Over Angola

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)

—The United States split with its North Atlantic allies Friday night to support a U.N. Security Council resolution demanding that Portugal stop repressive measures against the native African population in its riot-ridden territory of Angola. It was the Kennedy administration's third such vote on the Portuguese-Angola question.

The council adopted the Asian-African resolution 9-0 with two abstentions. Joining the United States for the resolution was the Soviet Union.

Britain and France abstained, and Portugal, an ally of the three Western powers in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, spoke out strongly against the resolution.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal prison official said Friday violence on TV is a cause of juvenile delinquency, makes it harder to recruit good police officers, and hurts morale of those already in law enforcement service.

James V. Bennett, director of the U.S. Bureau of Prisons, gave those views to a Senate subcommittee which heard also that TV officials have ordered more blood-and-thunder written into programs to jack up viewer ratings.

Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., chairman of the subcommittee on juvenile delinquency, told his fellow senators the hearings will bring out the calculated use of violence to attract viewers.

Aftermath Of Storm In Anne Arundel County

A worker inspects ruins of some of the homes damaged by tornado-like winds which struck a suburban housing development just outside Baltimore, in Anne Arundel County last evening.

Baltimore Area Hit By Twister

Wind Wrecks Homes; School Is Damaged

BALTIMORE (AP) — Twister-like winds whipped out of a thunderstorm at dusk Friday night and slammed into a suburban housing development, demolishing eight homes and damaging 36 others.

Several persons were injured but only six required hospital treatment. Many were treated at the scene, most for cuts from flying glass.

The development of some 500 houses, Suburbia Homes, resembled a bombed area after the brief storm passed. It is located about eight miles south of here.

Several persons living in houses which were leveled said they escaped injury by taking refuge in their cellars.

The Point Pleasant Elementary School located 750 yards from the development was hard hit. Parts of the roof of the 27-classroom building were blown into a creek 1,500 yards away. Police estimated damage to the school at $75,000.

At the development, roofs were completely blown off, walls and porches torn away and utility wires knocked down. Some of the houses looked like cutaway models with the walls missing but furniture still in place.

Thirty houses were listed by police as extensively damaged. About a dozen roofs littered the schoolyard.

All gas into the development was cut off to prevent possible explosions, and some 50 National Guardsmen were called in to stand watch over the wrecked homes during the night.

Mrs. Edwin Sokel, 24, said she and her 16-month-old son, Eric, were in the bedroom when the storm hit. She said she was trying to close a window when it blew (Continued on Page 2, col. 5)

Ravenna, Ky. Is Destroyed By Tornado

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — A tornado swept out of storm-darkened skies into the eastern Kentucky town of Ravenna Friday afternoon, killing several persons and injuring scores of children attending Bible school.

Adj. Gen. Arthur Lloyd said he learned by radio that two or three were dead and 25 seriously injured in the town of 950.

Ravenna, lying across the Kentucky River from Irvine in a narrow valley, was almost destroyed. State police said a four-block area along the river was demolished.

The injured children had been in the Christian church. The vicious storm tore off the roof, the walls caved in and flying debris sailed in all directions.

Then the tornado lifted, snaked southward through the Kentucky Valley and roared into the tiny community of Bellpoint, in Lee County.

A 9-year-old child was reported killed.

Lloyd ordered National Guardsmen into the Ravenna area and asked the public to stay away from the ruins.

Stunned eyewitnesses gave fragmentary reports on the ferocity of the twister, but state police were using their radio communications mainly for urgent messages.

Kenneth E. Sparks, 38, whose son was injured, said he saw gas station pumps unrooted and blown down the street like tenpins.

He said windows were shattering with explosive force at machine-gun pace.

The American Red Cross at Louisville sent blood to hospitals at Irvine, Richmond and Lexington.

Up to 50 victims were in the hospital at Irvine. Eleven were taken to Richmond and several of the most seriously injured to Lexington hospitals.

All power in the Irvine-Ravenna area was knocked out. Telephone lines were strewn over the watery highways and roads.

Kennedy Walks To Swim Pool On Crutches

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President Kennedy walked on crutches to a pool Friday and went swimming in the rain. Both the crutches and the swimming are intended to help ease and mend his strained back.

"He is improving," Andrew T. Hatcher, assistant White House press secretary, told reporters. Apparently the therapy is beginning to work. Hatcher reported that Kennedy was feeling better and was in good spirits.

The President slept well Thursday night after flying down from Washington and getting his first quick dip in the pool. Hatcher said. In fact, he said, Kennedy slept around the clock, from 10:15 to 10:15.

After getting up, Kennedy talked with his personal secretary, Evelyn Lincoln, by direct telephone line to Washington. Then about noon he got onto the crutches and made his way about 200 yards to the heated, outdoor salt water pool at the ocean-side villa of old friends, Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Wrightman. He is spending the weekend resting there.

Hatcher said Kennedy hauled himself around the large pool with a plain overhand stroke. The water temperature was around 85 to 90. His personal physician, Dr. Janet Travell, looked on. She told Hatcher her patient could go through motions painlessly in the water that would have caused distress outside the pool.

Dr. Travell has ordered swimming in a warm water pool as a means of bringing the injured back around to normal.

Commander Held In Fatal Tower Crash

28 Died When Radar Structure Collapsed In Sea

WASHINGTON (AP) — A courtmartial was ordered Friday for Col. William M. Banks on charges arising from collapse of a Texas tower radar structure off the New Jersey coast last Jan. 15.

All 28 men on the tower died when it toppled into the Atlantic Ocean.

The charge on which Banks is to be tried is that he was derelict in duty by failing to keep himself informed of the situation.

Banks was in command of the Boston Air Defense Center at the time of the disaster. The tower was under his command.

The Air Force announced that the air defense commander, Lt. Gen. Robert M. Lee, ordered the court-martial of Banks, but dismissed charges against two other officers.

They are Maj. William R. Sneed and Reginald L. Stark. The action followed a long investigation.

The Air Force said the dereliction charge against Banks would go to a military court to be appointed by Lee within a week.

The Air Force said the charge specifically states that, "Despite his knowledge of the then structural condition of the tower and his receipt of a severe weather forecast, Col. Banks failed to keep himself apprised of the developing weather situation; did not maintain contact with the officer in charge of the tower and with the commander of the squadron, and failed to hold himself readily available for any action necessary in view of the developing dangerous situation at the tower."

Sheppard and Stark were serving under Banks.

Banks is a native of Raleigh, W. Va. Sheppard comes from Berea, Ohio. Stark is a native of Altoona, N. Y.

Erected on a steel tripod in the open ocean, the radar structure's resemblance to an oil well rig brought the informal name "Texaco tower."

West Germany Standing Pat Against Soviet

By JOHN WEYLAND

BONN, Germany (AP) — West Germany stood pat Friday against stepped-up Soviet attacks on its activities in West Berlin. It refused to yield its ties with the isolated city.

Felix von Eckardt, the Bonn government spokesman, called the new protests from Moscow "artificial and unjustifiable." He made clear at a news conference they would be rejected.

There was similar reaction in London and Washington to the Soviet pressure, which developed less than a week after the Vienna summit meeting of Soviet Premier Khrushchev and President Kennedy.

A British Foreign Office spokesman said Britain's attitude is in no way altered by the Soviet complaints against meetings of West German parliamentarians in West Berlin.

In Washington, Lincoln White, U.S. State Department press officer, denied that these meetings are—as the Russians charged—"a new major provocation against the Soviet Union."

The protests were submitted to the Moscow embassies of the United States, Britain and France—who occupy West Berlin militarily—against meetings this week in West Berlin by committees of the West German Parliament and a plan to hold a meeting of the upper house there June 16.

Von Eckardt charged the Soviet Union was making trouble only for propaganda purposes.

"Nobody could conceivably treat these activities of our government as a threat to peace," he said.

FBI Has Lead In Baltimore Bank Robbery

Seek Escapees From Michigan

BALTIMORE (AP) — A multi-state FBI alarm Friday linked two escapees from a Michigan prison camp to a Baltimore bank robbery Thursday that netted $3,531.

Agents said they had studied a note handed by the robber to a teller at the bank and found fingerprints matching those of Stanley D. Spencer, 26, Asst. U.S. Atty. John Hargrove directed that bank robbery charges be lodged against Spencer.

A second man, believed to have been a companion of Spencer and who escaped with him from Michigan, was charged with interstate transportation of a stolen car. The charge was placed against Lester L. Wathen, 35.

Both men were still at large. The robbery occurred at midday in a branch of the Union Trust Co. in northwest Baltimore. A teller said a well-dressed man handed her a note demanding that she fill his briefcase with money, and she complied.

The bandit escaped in a car which later was found abandoned at a shopping center. The automobile was identified as one stolen from a car rental agency in Michigan.

Both men escaped from the State prison camp at Waterloo, Jackson, Mich., May 24.

Police said they found in the stolen car various items of clothing, including a man's jacket with a realistic toy pistol in the pocket.

The bank teller had said she had not seen any pistol, but that the robber had kept his hand in his pocket during the robbery.

The car was stolen in Michigan June 2.

Four Refineries Abandon Fair Trade Policies

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Four major oil refineries are abandoning fair trade prices for their gasoline in Pennsylvania.

American Oil Company started the action Tuesday and said some dealers already have cut prices for regular grade gasoline two cents a gallon.

Sun Oil Company, Mobil Oil and Humble Oil and Refining Company announced Friday they were following suit.

The action stems from recent court decisions.

Gulf, Atlantic and Texaco are continuing to operate under fair trade, but each said their position could change at any time.

None of the companies would predict a price-cutting war by dealers, but a Gulf spokesman noted that these wars were commonplace throughout Pennsylvania prior to 1959, when most of the companies began operating under the State Fair Trade Act.

An American Oil spokesman said it observed some dealers cut the price for regular grade gasoline from 30.9 to 28.9 cents per gallon.

Sun said individual dealers can set their own prices.

Last October the State Supreme Court ruled gasoline sales must be in free and open competition.

Last month, Philadelphia Common Pleas Court used that decision as a basis for ruling Esso dealers were not bound to sell gasoline at fair trade prices.

Four Americans Are Attacked In Argentina

ROSARIO, Argentina (AP) — Maintenance workers at repair shops of the state-owned railroads attacked four U.S. government officials and technicians Wednesday.

The railroads suspended about 1,800 men. Striking back, Rosario rail unions called a 24-hour strike today.

The American group, headed by Gen. Thomas B. Larkin, was touring the maintenance and repair shops. Larkin is chief of a World Bank mission which is advising Argentina how to curb its railroad deficit.

As the Americans, escorted by two Argentine technicians, entered the main shops, a large number of workers booed and insulted them.

The workers began hurling nuts and bolts at the mission members. The party sought sanctuary inside shop offices. Police arrived minutes later and order was restored.

More than 12,000 parents, friends, alumni and faculty are expected to attend the cap-and-gown ceremonies, beginning at 10 a.m. in the William P. Cole Jr. Activities Building.

Guerrilla Arms Survey Is Launched

U.S. Team Studies Equipment Needs

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. military research specialists are fanning into Southeast Asia and the Middle East on a survey that could drastically change the kind of weapons and equipment this country supplies its friends there, and the kind it may have to use itself someday.

The purpose is to learn what special arms and gear are needed to combat Communist guerrillas waging hit-and-run warfare in jungle or other rough terrain to which conventional battlefield weapons are not well-suited.

The research and development teams will talk with native fighters in terrorist-infested areas. The specialists also will confer with members of the U.S. Military Advisory Groups already on the scene.

The surveys, which ultimately may spread into Africa, are expected to be finished this fall.

Based on the findings of these research teams, the United States may start tailoring the arms it supplies to fit the needs of this unconventional type of fighting. In the past, shipments often were obsolete conventional arms no longer needed by U.S. forces.

It also may mean that for the first time this country will furnish arms to irregular forces, village defense units and civil guard elements which now have to make do with improvised, homemade weapons or capture their guns, mortars and the like from the enemy.

Under present policy, the United States arms and trains only the regular military establishment in such countries as South Viet Nam, where village defense units are doing much of the actual fighting against the Communist Viet Cong.

The new approach stems from the emphasis being placed by President Kennedy and the Pentagon on paramilitary warfare and the quelling Communist terrorists who rarely challenge organized military units in open combat, but operate by stealth and ambush.

Maritime Union Strike Voted

BALTIMORE (AP)—Some 1,800 Baltimore members of the National Maritime Union are ready to strike if contract negotiations now in progress fail, a local agent for the union said Friday.

The agent, Leo Strassman, said the local membership favors the national union's stand in the contract dispute. Preparations for a strike Thursday are already under way, he said.

Strassman said the union represents services "more than 50 per cent of the American flagships which come into Baltimore."

He indicated a strike might also touch off union picketing of steamship offices in downtown Baltimore.

The contract negotiations are being conducted in New York.

White Sentenced To Gas Chamber

BALTIMORE (AP) — Robert G. White, 31, was sentenced Friday to be executed in the Penitentiary gas chamber for the fatal beating of a Baltimore grocer May 10, 1960.

Benjamin Ingber, 67, died about 15 days after he was bludgeoned with a ten pin during a robbery at his store.

White's co-defendant in the case, James F. Wade, 20, was sentenced to life imprisonment. The sentences were imposed in Youth Court by Chief Judge Emory H. Niles, and Judges Michael J. Manley and James K. Cullen, who heard the trial last Feb. 27.

Soviets Insist On Nuclear Ban Veto

GENEVA (AP)—The Soviet Union insisted today that the proposed system to police a ban of nuclear weapons tests must be subject to a Soviet veto right.

Soviet delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin reiterated that demand at the 316th session of the Big Three nuclear talk. His statement was immediately criticized by U.S. negotiator Arthur H. Dean and Sir Michael Wright of Britain.

Bumper Wheat Crop Forecast

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department Friday forecast this year's wheat crop at 1.343 billion bushels.

This future is 16 million bushels more than the department's previous forecast of 1.327 billion bushels. Production last year was 1.363 billion bushels, the second largest of record. Production for the 10-year (1950-59) average was 1,094,898,000 bushels.

The crop will be supplemented by a record large reserve and surplus of about 1.455 billion bushels, as of July 1. This supply, mostly in the hands of the government under price support programs, was accumulated from past crops grown under control programs that failed to prevent overproduction.

At least three of the homes demolished were unoccupied. All are in the $12,000-$13,000 price range, some frame and some part frame and part brick.

"The entire sky was black as midnight," said one resident.

Cpl. M. L. Dillon of the Anne Arundel County Police said he saw the twister coming. He said it looked "like a white pillar of water" against the dark storm clouds.

Mrs. Otha Looney, who was working at a nearby drug store, called her home in the development when the storm struck. Her 11-year-old son, John, said he picked up the telephone and was about to say hello when a wall caved in. He threw his brother, Mickey, 7, to the floor until the winds died down.

Al Meach said he and his two-year-old daughter had just gone inside from their front porch when the porch was ripped away.

Firemen, utility crews and volunteers planned to work most of the night to make some of the damaged homes livable.

The storm dropped more than one inch of rain in 48 minutes as winds in excess of 40 miles an hour lashed the Baltimore area. The heaviest downpour was in the 13-minute period from 5:35 p. m. to 5:50 p. m.

At Ritchie and Crain highways, near Suburbia Homes, it was reported the wind swept through a trailer sales lot, overturning several of the large mobile homes and wrecking automobiles. The windows and doors were ripped out of a service station across the street, it was reported.

The lightning ignited several roof fires in Baltimore, including one school. Several cars were trapped in underpasses by flash floods.

High winds and hail were reported in the Arnold area of Anne Arundel County.

Strong winds also accompanied the thunderstorm on the Eastern Shore. At Wingate in Dorchester County, a two-car garage reportedly was picked up and blown into a marsh.

5 Cuban Nuns Are Detained

39 Others Arrive In Baltimore

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Oblate Sisters of Providence said Friday that five Cuban nuns scheduled to come to the United States from Havana Thursday had been detained under house arrest.

Thirty-nine other nuns in the order arrived here by plane. They came at the direction of the Rev. Mother William, O.S.P., mother superior of the order's headquarters, who said the nuns no longer could continue their work in Cuba.

A spokesman for the motherhouse of Our Lady of Mount Providence said the five nuns remaining in Cuba were being detained by government officials at a villa outside Havana. All of them are Cubans, and all have relatives in Cuba, the spokesman said. One, an elderly nun, is dying of cancer.

The sisters who arrived here Thursday reported they had not been permitted to take any spare clothing or luggage, except for two religious statues.

Mother William said she feared for the safety of the nuns who were left behind.

The order closed all five of its schools in Cuba in April, rather than submit to directives that the schools use government-approved books and comply with government regulation.

Three of the 39 sisters are citizens of the Dominican Republic, and the rest are Cuban. Some will teach in Catholic schools in this country.

Research Makes Progress In Measles Immunization

BALTIMORE (AP) — Research group was joined by Dr. Samuel Musser of that city.

After inoculations administered to 71 children at the Maryland school and 158 children in St. Joseph, the researchers observed sharp declines in side reactions to measles vaccine. The children had also been given the globulin — a component of blood plasma.

The Maryland physicians who participated in the research program are Doctors Fred R. McCrumb Jr., Richard B. Hornick, Training School. Further results were derived from a study at St. Joseph, Mo., where the Maryland's Bigbee.

The physicians began the inoculation at the Rosewood (Md.) Training School. Further results were derived from a study at St. Joseph, Mo., where the Maryland's Bigbee.

Catholic Priest Who Converted To Judaism Says He's Found Spiritual Peace

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

The path taken by Abraham I. Carmel is unique in modern religious annals. He was a Roman Catholic priest. Today, he is a Jew.

"Nothing can compare with the spiritual peace this return to the mother religion has brought me," he said.

Not for 12 centuries—since 838 A.D.—had there been a known case in which a Roman Catholic priest converted to Judaism until the former Father Kenneth C. Cox took the step, assuming his new Jewish name.

The change was not easy. "For a person to take the step I've taken, he has to be 100 per cent sincere or 100 per cent mad," Carmel said in an interview.

Orthodox Judaism discourages converts, and Carmel was rebuffed for four years before being accepted. Relatives snubbed him. He still respects the church he left, still misses the human service of the priesthood.

"The priest has an opportunity of living 24 hours a day for people," he said. "There is no substitute for that on the human level."

"But the fullness of Jewish life, the complete unity and peace within and the freedom from any internal conflict renders this great loss not only possible, but compensates for it."

Carmel, 50, a genial, scholarly man with dark hair and horn-rimmed spectacles, spent seven years as a priest, mostly at a Stirling, Scotland, parish, before his conversion.

He is now in this country on a lecture tour, before Jewish groups, under auspices of the National Jewish Welfare Board and the private foundation which published his autobiographical account, "So Strange My Path."

Unlike some Catholic priests who have left their church, Carmel has never attacked it. "I will not tolerate anyone pulling the church apart," he said.

"Anyone who comes to me and says that Catholics worship images, I'm the first to set them straight. I defend the church on these points, because I know. I've never criticized the church since my painful wrench from those people to whom I was attached, and for whom I have very personal, very deep affections."

Then why the break? He said it was his gradual, growing doubt, born of much study and meditation, about the doctrine of God's incarnation as Jesus, and about God's physical presence, as Christ's body, in the bread and wine of Holy Communion.

"I found it increasingly difficult to administer the sacraments," he said. "Once one doubts the incarnation, the whole structure is shaken and the whole structure collapses. Eventually, I just couldn't swallow it anymore."

Asked if it wasn't logical or a wise God to reveal himself to man on man's level so man could understand, Carmel said he felt it "unfitting and illogical" for an infinite God to take on the limitations of human flesh.

In 1960, Carmel ceased his priestly functions. Theoretically, he still has a priest's powers, but is not permitted to use them. After four years delay, Britain's Jewish ecclesiastical court, the Beth Din, in 1963 admitted him to Judaism.

"This doesn't necessarily mean I'm accepted in Jewish society," he said. "There was a long period of cynicism and skepticism. But thank God, that is beginning to ease up. I've still got a long ways to go, however, before I'm considered 'kosher.' I've still got to go on proving I'm a Jew to every Jew I meet."

Whom God Hath Joined TOGETHER...

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	Gospels	22	1-18
Monday	Ephesians	6	1-4
Tuesday	1 Chronicles	16	23-29

Saturday	1 Timothy	5	1-5

...let not man put asunder.

Before the Altar of Christ they took their vows. And now God has placed another hand in theirs; a small hand, needing tenderness and guiding love. Before the Altar of Christ they come with their child, and according to the baptismal beliefs of their church dedicate his life to God. Before the Altar of Christ they worship each Sunday, and eagerly help their growing son to master the Truths that will undergird his life. Of course, there are times when the responsibilities of marriage and parenthood test their patience, and understanding, and courage to sacrifice. But they have learned long since to conquer their selfishness and surrender their pride where they receive forgiveness, strength and ever-deepening love—before the Altar of Christ.

Secrets Of Charm

Be Posture Perfect For Figure Flattery

(Copyright, 1961, by National Newspaper Syndicate)

Wouldn't it be wonderful to discover that you have a much better figure than you thought you had? I think this is entirely possible.

I can't agree with popular opinion that a really good figure is rare. Good figures are far more numerous than they're thought to be—it's just that bad posture makes many of them hard to recognize.

Who can tell what natural proportions are when slumping, swayback, or a corkscrew curve position throws the body out of line?

Of course the abdomen looks too large when the pelvis tilts forward.

A bustline can't stay high when shoulders droop. The curve of the lower back flares outward much too soon when the spinal column isn't straight, as it should be.

Posture correction alone can turn many a seemingly bad figure into a good one.

General or spot weight loss or gain is necessary, of course, in some cases, but a handsome figure shapes up frequently the minute posture is under control.

Make no mistake about it. Posture is of top importance in the quest of beauty and charm. To the impression you make on others, and to your health, too, as well as to the symmetry of your figure.

YOUR BEAUTY DIET. Want to gain weight? Lose it? Remain the same? Whatever your weight problem, YOUR BEAUTY DIET will show you the answer. Get your copy by sending just 10c and a stamped, return envelope to "Secrets of Charm," c/o this newspaper.

Local Youth Valedictorian

Three Cumberland area youths received diplomas at commencement exercises at Merceburg Academy, with one of the three being valedictorian of the graduating class.

The valedictorian was G. Lee Bowie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon L. Bowie, 706 Washington Street. Among the awards Bowie received were the senior medal, presented to the first honor man in the senior class, and a citation for work in analytic geometry and calculus.

Other members of the class were Michael H. Stone, son of Mr. and Mrs. Doren C. Stone, McMullen Highway, and Arnold E. Zaks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Zaks, LaVale.

The valedictorian was a member of the Cum Laude Society, national honor group; Chemistry Club, Choir, Glee Club, Electronics Club and Stony Batter dramatics club. Bowie also was a member of the Irving Literary Society declamation team and a member of the board of the Merceburg News, student weekly paper.

Stone was vice president of the Russian Club, and was a member of the Chemistry Club and the Fifteen, senior English honor society. While a student at Merceburg, he was a member of the football, wrestling and soccer teams. Stone also held membership in the Press Club, Stamp Club, Stony Batter Club and the Irving Literary Society.

Zaks participated in several musical groups at Merceburg and was a member of the football and concert bands. A member of the varsity baseball team, Zaks also belonged to the Caducean Club.

Ann Landers ...

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Is it a daughter's place or a son's place to take care of an aging mother who can't work?

We have had many discussions on this subject in our family, and as you can guess, there has been some trouble. Will you please print your views in the paper? There must be thousands of others who are interested and want to hear an unbiased third party's opinion.

— IN DISCORD

DEAR IN: A mother takes care of all her children, girls and boys alike, doesn't she? Why, then, should sex be a factor in determining who takes care of an aging parent?

In my opinion the responsibility—a better word is privilege—should be shared by all the children. State laws vary, however, and when it becomes a matter for the law to decide, the son is usually the one who must provide support money. It's a pretty sad commentary, nevertheless, when the law must be used as a hammer to get children to behave in a humane and decent manner.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our son is engaged to marry a very sweet girl. She has been raised by a domineering father and a disrag of a stepmother.

The father recently wrote us a letter saying we are supposed to pay for the flowers to decorate the altar, for the organist, the soloist, the refreshments and beverages for the wedding reception, and the orchestra.

The girl's aunt phoned me this morning, in tears. The bride's father wrote on the bottom of every invitation "No gifts. Please send money." I am embarrassed to death. It was done without the knowledge of our son and his fiancée. Please tell me what to do about all this. I am stumped.

— GRAND RAPIDS

DEAR GRAND: Go to the public library and ask for the most current book on wedding etiquette. It will tell you who should pay for what. Write down the information, send it to the bride's father and tell him you are bewildered at his request and that you intend to follow the rules of etiquette.

The suggestion on the wedding invitation that friends send money is incredible. Phone your friends and relatives and ask them to please ignore it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our daughter is 17 years old, an honor student, and she has always been well-behaved and easy to get along with. Miss J is extremely good-looking and has a model's figure. I'm not saying this because I'm her mother. She has had offers.

The problem involves her popularity. She goes with several fellows, all from nice homes and

On Billboards
And Bonuses

If the battle to prevent billboard encroachments on the $40 billion interstate highways system is to be won, Congress will have to give the states more time to meet federal standards. Bureau of Public Roads officials at Washington estimate that no more than 12 to 15 states will have completed agreements with the federal government to control advertising along the system before the offer of a special bonus expires on June 30. Maryland and North Dakota are the only states that have entered into formal agreements up to this time.

Congress in 1958 authorized control of outdoor advertising within designated limits of the routes of the interstate system. States which agree to ban all except "informational" signs within 660 feet of rights-of-way are to receive incentive payments of an extra one-half of 1 per cent of the cost of interstate highway projects within their boundaries.

In a highway message to Congress on February 28, President Kennedy urged that this billboard control section be extended for four more years and that the bonus be raised from one half per cent to 1 per cent of a state's allotment. He said a "variety of pressures" had prevented states from taking advantage of the 1958 provision. One of these pressures is exerted by the billboard lobby, which is alleged to have been hindering passage of the legislation needed to qualify for the federal bonus.

But so far, Congress has ignored the President's plea.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Popularity

Personal popularity has the political value of making it smoother for a President to carry his program to completion. An unpopular President may be the rightest man in all this world but Congress always responds to the voice of the people, as it should, and if the people do not like the President, for one reason or another, Congress will fight him.

John Kennedy, as a candidate, was not particularly popular. Neither was his opponent, Richard Nixon. Their debates, while novel, were not too exciting. Such a display of forensics will not likely be tried too soon again. Kennedy was elected by a small popular vote, which translated into political terms ordinarily would mean that he would not exercise much influence over Congress.

Then came the first hundred days. John Kennedy developed a personal popularity of major political significance. The general sentiment was that he ought to be given a chance. His press interviews, in contrast with President Eisenhower's which were extraordinarily dull and ambiguous, were exacting and informative. Jack Kennedy answers questions with certainty and sparkle.

The spell of popularity continued to swell until the Cuban fiasco which hurt President Kennedy's reputation, particularly as he assumed full responsibility instead of firing those who were really responsible for errors of judgment and of commission. His avoidance of an immediate decision against Castro looked like indecisiveness. Many who had looked upon Kennedy as a possible Moses, took a second look at him and critics became numerous.

The White House sped up its public relations program, emphasizing the glorious womanhood of Mrs. Kennedy, the charm of Caroline, the brilliance of Bobby. But it did not work and had there been someone with the sharpness of William Randolph Hearst to shout "Remember the Maine!" no one could have known what might have happened. But Kennedy remained adamant. He would not risk a war over Berlin because of any action he might take in Cuba.

Again many stepped back to ask whether Kennedy was strong enough, mature enough to head this nation. Criticism was no longer only political; it became personal.

Then he went to Europe, to Paris, Vienna and London and conquered a continent by his personality, his culture, his charm, his surprising knowledge and his wife. It was a public relations job but an extraordinarily brilliant one. Without a single misstep, without an iota of cheapness, President and Mrs. Kennedy captured the hearts of the masses. In Great Britain, this was particularly fortunate, because the British have been moving away from us in many directions. It is more important for the United States, from a practical standpoint, that half a million Londoners came out to shout themselves hoarse for Jack and Jackie, than that Khrushchev should have behaved like a gentleman, which he did. Londoners do not shout for foreigners very readily.

What Kennedy actually accomplished was to overcome the froth of minor antagonisms and to re-establish such unity as Winston Churchill produced during the worst days of World War II. And this was accomplished without saying one word or making a single gesture.

Mass popularity is a major quality in international relations. Winston Churchill could do no wrong, could say nothing untoward, so far as the American people are concerned. He was a master of public opinion in his hey-day and could do more with the wave of a hand than most politicians could accomplish with profound speeches. Apparently John Kennedy possesses this same quality — a warmth of personality which carries itself not only to individuals but to great masses.

Actually, President Kennedy did not achieve an agreement about anything. Even his understanding with Prime Minister Macmillan is only a repetition of an already established position. Nevertheless the enthusiasm of the British people for President Kennedy and his wife re-established a cordiality which even Franklin D. Roosevelt did not achieve in Great Britain. That popularity can stand the United States in good stead in the forthcoming discussions, particularly as it becomes increasingly necessary for this country to find a unification of policy with Great Britain.

Although the United States is probably the strongest nation on Earth, it cannot stand alone. The world today is too complex, too involved, for any one nation to stand absolutely alone. From an historical standpoint, Anglo-American friendship must be the foundation of policy and that has been strengthened by John Kennedy's visit.

'When You Come To Moscow — Bring Jack, Too'

Khrushchev's New Brand Of Brinksmanship

WASHINGTON

"Somber" was the word which

President Kennedy used, to sum up and characterize his meeting with Nikita S. Khrushchev. It is also the best word, alas, to characterize this reporter's impressions at the close of a long journey that began in Thailand and Laos and ended in Vienna and London.

In situation after melancholy situation, a single, simple, central fact stood out. The leaders of the West, apparently including the new leader of the United States, have not found the answer to the new brand of brinksmanship which Khrushchev is practicing all over the world.

In essence, the technique being used is everywhere the same, at Berlin and in Laos and South Vietnam. With the most careful calculation, moves are made, or in the case of Berlin, moves are threatened, which are not overtly military in character. But these moves leave the Western allies with no choices open to them, except to make an overtly military riposte, or to accept the loss of a vital position.

A vast amount of woolly nonsense has been talked and written about the Soviet moves, and the hard reality of the Soviet technique has been obscured thereby. In Laos, for instance, all sorts of criticisms have been leveled at past American policy there, mainly by persons who have never been near Laos. But the fact is that the non-Communist Laotians, whom the American government backed, invariably had the upper hand in the struggle against the Communist Laotians. The non-Communists were defeated, in fact, solely because the Communists were massively reinforced, not only by Soviet military supplies, but also by thousands of border-crossers from North Vietnam.

The Soviet military supplies

would have been wholly ineffective if the borders of Laos had not also been grossly violated. But the border-crossers, though trained troops, made their way into Laos obscurely, in guerrilla guise. Under the strange double standard rules now widely accepted, this kind of border crossing is not classified as aggression. But there was no answer to it, and no way to save Laos, except a direct military riposte.

In South Vietnam, too, an arrogantly flagrant attack has been launched against the regime of President Ngo Dinh Diem. Here, the political wool merchants, instead of denouncing American policy, have leveled their criticisms at President Diem. His government, they say, usually without having visited South Vietnam, is corrupt, repressive, and unpopular. In reality, it is a pretive good government by Asian standards, and certainly immeasurably better than the bleak concentration camp which is Communist North Vietnam.

The Diem government is being attacked by the North Vietnamese, in truth, because Diem was making altogether too much progress to suit the Communists. The methods here are the same as in Laos—massive border crossing, open financing and supply of a guerrilla movement, and everything else but a formal invasion of South Vietnam by the North Vietnamese army. President Diem may yet succeed in beating off this attack. But it is also quite possible that the time may come when the only way to save South Vietnam will be a direct military riposte.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

TIME OFF — One of the New Frontiersmen in the Treasury Department got to wondering how much vacation he should take this year, he being a new man in the department. He raised the question with an old-timer, who sagaciously suggested that he model himself after his boss, Secretary C. Douglas Dillon.

With this in mind, the aide asked Dillon what his vacation plans were this year. Dillon replied: "I hope to find enough time this summer to take a few Sundays off to shoot some golf." Now, the New Frontiersman is mad at the old-timer for suggesting such a stupid course of action.

RACIAL ACTIVITY — A recent occurrence in a Washington suburb illustrates how sensitive the public is to racial demonstrations.

One day recently, rumors spread through a county building in nearby Maryland that a group of Negroes were assembling to picket the place in favor of an anti-discrimination ordinance.

There was a lot of excitement, a lot of conferences, and a call to the county police headquarters before the intent of the Negro group was correctly determined. The gathering Negroes were on a tour of the U. S. from the Congo. They had, on invitation, dropped in to see the county council at work. They were warmly greeted by the council, learned from the experience, and another international incident was narrowly averted.

GOP Strategists Planning To Attack Kennedy For Appointing Relatives

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Republican strategists have secretly decided that the most vulnerable spot in the Kennedy armor is nepotism. So they will soon launch an attack on the President for appointing relatives to key jobs.

This is an issue which the public easily understands and the GOP strategists are preparing to go to town on it. They will point to the President's younger brother Bobby Kennedy, as Attorney General, one of the most important jobs in the Cabinet. They will also point to Sargent Shriver, the President's brother-in-law from Chicago, head of the Peace Corps; and to Stephen Smith, another brother-in-law, a consultant to the International Development Bank.

None of these relatives actually receives government salary, but the GOP policy planners figure that doesn't make any difference. They figure the Kennedy family played into GOP hands by being conspicuously in the public eye of late. Eunice Kennedy Shriver having had a widely publicized conversation with Khrushchev and Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, the President's mother, having dined with the wife of the Austrian President. Mrs. Stephen Smith recently went around the world with Vice President Lyndon Johnson and her husband.

Inside word is that Kennedy didn't want his baby sister, Mrs. Smith, taking the latter trip. He figured it would play into GOP hands. Actually she was an asset to the Johnson entourage, but politics is politics and nepotism can be a very effective issue.

Note—Checker Cab No. 3, driven by a Negro taxi driver, was standing in front of St. Matthew's Cathedral the other Sunday when a policeman asked that it move on. "I'm waiting for the President's mother and father. They're inside the church," explained the driver. Further inquiry developed that Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy had used the cab and Negro driver for three days in and around the nation's capital, had not used a White House car. Mrs. Eisenhower's mother, Mrs. Dowd, always used a White House limousine during the many months she lived in Washington.

Lyndon Johnson Briefs

Unnoticed by reporters, Vice President Lyndon Johnson slipped across the Potomac to the Pentagon the other day and ducked into Secretary of Defense McNamara's block-long office.

Waiting for him were the Secretaries of the Army, Navy, and Air Force, plus the Joint Chiefs of Staff who sat behind closed doors listening to his ideas on Asia.

Johnson gave details on his tour through the Far East, praised the toughness of Thailand's Premier Sarit Thanarat and the progressive social reforms of Formosa's Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. He also had favorable words for Emperor Diem and his chances of checking Communism in South Vietnam.

The Vice President urged the Pentagon brass to send only their best men to serve in our Far Eastern embassies and military missions.

"Our new ambassadors in Asia need the understanding and support of the military," he declared. He described military duty in this vital area as "perhaps even more important than a combat assignment."

Johnson called for a closer watch on our aid to Asian nations "to assure that our people get the most for their dollars."

He recommended sending fiscal and economic experts into the field to follow American dollars "from the Treasury to the schools, construction and agricultural projects" and the places where the money is spent overseas.

Good businessmen should be utilized in the foreign aid program, he added.

The Vice President was most critical of U. S. information people overseas and suggested a survey to determine whether the quality of our information specialists can be improved. He hinted that the misfits may be "very actively replaced."

The military men agreed after their briefing that Johnson had performed a real service in the Far East.

Note—President Kennedy has already adopted several of Johnson's ideas, including the proposal to send watchdogs to check on the expenditure of U.S. aid money.

Another War Criminal

Dr. Josef Mengele, the infamous doctor of the Auschwitz concentration camp, is reported hiding across the northern border of the United States in Canada.

Dr. Mengele is the wealthy, handsome doctor who strutted around Auschwitz, impervious to human suffering, and with a wave of his walking stick selected Jews to be sent to the crematorium, those to be used as guinea pigs for medical research, and those condemned to hard labor.

Perhaps next to Adolf Eichmann, Dr. Mengele reveled in the suffering of the Jewish people. After V-E Day he escaped to Buenos Aires where it is known that he lived for many years. He disappeared, however, just a few hours after Adolf Eichmann was whisked out of Argentina by Israeli commandos, and is now reported hiding in Canada.

Pennsy-Go-Round

Up in Pennsylvania there's a paraphrase to the song "What Lola Wants, Lola Gets." In this case it's "What Bill Green Wants, Bill Green Gets." The Philadelphia Congressman who clinched the nomination for Kennedy at Los Angeles, has just put the lawyer who defended him when he was criminally indicted, Joseph S. Lord III, in the job of U. S. Attorney for Eastern Pennsylvania. (Lord will be named a U. S. judge soon.) Green has also maneuvered the location of the new Internal Revenue center from Scranton and Wilkes-Barre to Philadelphia, his home town.

Cultural Renewal

By John Crosby

Joel Schenker is what you might call a hardheaded visionary. He's a businessman (mostly in real estate) who has created an elaborate plan to rescue the theater. He calls it cultural renewal and it makes a lot of sense.

"I consider the theater to be a calling which is perhaps ill now but which can be cured with intelligent planning. The theater five decades ago was run by actor-managers. These people wrote for their own theaters, managed them, and used them.

"The greatest period of theater and playwright productivity was when writers were an integral participant in theater and production: Shakespeare in Burbage's theater, Moliere in his own theater, Chekov in the Moscow Art Theater, O'Neill in the Provincetown Playhouse, Odets in the Group Theater. When the theater went public, you got the security market. It is no longer possible for an individual to own, operate, and play in his own theater. As the costs rose to astronomical heights, all sorts of things happened. The producer who once devoted himself to the literary content of the play became busy with costs, budgets, and looking for a theater. He virtually abdicated.

"The producers are so afraid to fail that they do fail, by that I mean they allow anarchy. They have got to get a director with a name and to keep the director they let him do what he wants to the play. He can change the content to suit himself. Or the star can change it. It's a director's medium and sometimes the ideas get lost. The audience is not composed of people who like the theater and want to go. They are status seekers and the theater is a symbol of status."

In spite of all this Schenker is an optimistic man with gusts of great enthusiasm. His plan envisages remaking a great tract of land from Eighth to Tenth Avenues into a combined theater, shopping, and living area which looks impressive on paper.

"I am optimistic provided we get leadership and I mean political leadership. If statesmen would learn what the theater means to them, to the city, to the intellect, to the soul, to the economy! The politician must believe in the theater—in its cultural as well as economic value. It is almost the only forum left with great ideas which can be expressed and hope to be believed. The pulpit has abdicated. I have a great faith in the printed word. I believe "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was more important than the "Emancipation Proclamation". The intelligence quotient for the movies and television is about twelve years old. Those things are not going to make better men and women. They're not going to change the world."

That leaves the theater. Schenker proposes that with federal and city authority but private funds to remake a large area, now largely given over to slums, into apartments and shops but with one huge area for twelve new theaters, housed in a plaza with underground parking. This would be the proposed home of the Theater Guild, American Academy of Dramatic Arts, American Theater Wing, American Shakespeare Festival Society, etc.

The city would be asked for a mortgage for 90 per cent of total cash for land and structure and forty years to pay off with no taxes for the duration of the mortgage.

After the buildings go up, he has other ideas to fill them. "First in the new theaters, there should be a great number of seats per night for university students and high school students to see the play at $2 a person. They would have little cards to be punched so they could see only six plays at this price a year. We have to start creating a theater audience; they're not born. Then there should be created a central library with a box office. At 8:15 all unsold theater tickets would be referred to the library. People from unions, from clubs, from schools who would pay $2 a year to the library would have the privilege of buying the tickets at nominal costs after 8:15. It's a crime for curtains to go up on houses in New York which are half empty. It is not only an economic but a cultural waste.

"If the theater doesn't survive, I think our way of life is threatened. It is the last forum, where intelligence and sensitive people can speak and be spoken to. To save the theater we must have a wider market. The more theaters the better."

You're Telling Me!

By William Ritt

Expert safe crackers, says a British War Office official, now use lollipop sticks to tamp explosives into locks. Maybe so, but we could hardly call this "kid stuff."

Barbers talk too much, says famed poet Robert Frost in explaining why he cuts his own hair. Apparently, he wants more snipping, less quipping.

A London composer has just published a song which has 22-count 'em, 22—words in the title. Sounds like a perfect piece of music to listen to while studying the dictionary!

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Tales of early tribulations of authors who later achieved world fame should stiffen the backbones of neophytes who think their troubles are unique.

John Steinbeck, for instance, was once a hod carrier. He played a modest role in building Madison Square Garden, in fact. Sinclair Lewis once worked in the publicity department of Frederick Stokes & Co. He made $23 a week and when he had the temerity to ask for a $2 raise, Mr. Stokes sent him packing. Ten years later the same Stokes offered Lewis, who now had hit the jackpot with "Main Street," a $75,000 advance, sight unseen, for his next manuscript!

Frank Yerby wrote his first smash hit, "The Foxes of Harrow," while serving as a porter in an aircraft factory. And William Faulkner wrote "Sanctuary" while serving as a clerk in the Oxford, Miss., post office.

"Spend your vacation in your own backyard," suggests Bill Vaughan, "and your friends will know the kind of man you are: sensitive, introspective, home-loving—and broke."

ASPIRIN AND STOMACH

O. D. writes: Is aspirin hard on a child's stomach?

REPLY

It may irritate the gastric lining in children as well as in adults. Children also are more sensitive to aspirin.

DISK DISEASE

B. O. B. writes: Is a ruptured disk the same as a slipped disk?

REPLY

Yes. Each vertebra is separated by a cushion (disk) that looks and feels like a slice of lobster tail. The edge weakens with age or injury and when it gives way, the ruptured area bulges like a bubble and presses upon the spinal cord or nerve root. The protruding part is called slipped disk erroneously.

TOBACCO AND ANXIETY

C. L. M. writes: Could smoking be responsible for anxiety attacks?

REPLY

Smoking overstimulates some people and might make them feel uneasy. But as a rule, anxiety is of emotional origin and is unrelated to smoking. To complicate matters, many nervous people smoke.

EATING OUT

C. L. writes: Every time I eat in a restaurant I crave glass after glass of water, lemonade, or anything cold after I get home. Why?

REPLY

Cravings of this type usually have their origin in a long forgotten experience. Possibilities include severe nausea from a previous visit to a filthy restaurant or eating greasy food. Too much salt is another factor.

ANIMAL-LIKE BEHAVIOR

P. W. writes: Could today's juvenile delinquency be due to feeding children animal milk instead of nursing them?

REPLY

No, even though many delinquents are extremely bossy.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Senators Edge Chicago, 1-0

10th Inning Hit By Bright Decides

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Harry Bright's 10th-inning single gave the Washington Senators a 1-0 victory over the Chicago White Sox in the first game of a two-night double header Friday night.

Dick Donovan went all the way on a six-hitter to notch his first victory against his former mates who sold him to Washington for $75,000 last December.

Cal McLish blanked the Senators for six innings and then was taken out for a pinch-hitter in the seventh. Warren Hacker, who relieved McLish, took the loss, his first with the White Sox. Hacker had pitched eight shutout innings of relief until the 10th.

Gene Woodling opened the 10th with a single. Jim Mahoney ran for him and was sacrificed along by Pete Daley. Billy Klaus got an intentional walk. Bright batted for Chuck Cottier and lined a long single to left bringing in Mahoney with the winning run.

Angels Hold Boston Even

Red Sox Win, 5-3, Drop Second, 5-1

BOSTON (UPI)—The Boston Red Sox and Los Angeles Angels split a two-night double-header Friday night. Boston won the first game 5-3 and the Angels took the second game 5-1 before

In the second game, righthander Ryne Duren of the Angels set a new American League consecutive strikeout record when he set down seven straight batters from the first through the third innings. The former mark was set by seven pitchers.

In the nightcap, the Angels were found guilty of a baseball rarity, having a batter hit out of turn. In the second inning, Ken Aspromonte singled to open the inning and Ken Hamlin beat out an infield hit.

Manager Mike Higgins of the Red Sox came out of the dugout after Hamlin's single and protested that the infielder had batted out of turn. Plate Umpire Hal Smith checked his lineup cards and found that Gene Leek who batted first in the game should have been in the eighth spot and Hamlin should have led off.

Hamlin was ruled out and Aspromonte was sent back to first base.

The mistake had little effect on the game. The Angels hit Mike Fornieles for nine hits and five runs in five innings, while Duren was setting down the Red Sox for 6 2/3 innings before he tired. Righthander Eli Grba held the Sox in check for the last two innings.

The Red Sox had stretched their winning streak to four in the opener, the longest win streak they have had this year. Billy Muffett held the Angels to five hits to gain his second win of the season.

Yanks Win, 8-6, Maris Hits 18th

NEW YORK (UPI)—Roger Maris' 18th home run with a man aboard broke a 5-5 tie in the seventh inning and paved the way for the New York Yankees' 8-6 victory Friday night in a game held up three times because of rain.

Maris' homer, his 15th in the Yankees' last 23 games, followed Tony Kubek's third hit of the game, a double to right center, and sent starter Ray Herbert down to his sixth defeat.

Maris and Mickey Mantle accounted for six of the Yankees' runs. In the third inning, Mantle walloped his 16th home run following singles by Kubek and Maris.

CCC Golf Team Will Seek 15th Victory In Row

Four Clubs In Match At Kingwood Sunday

Undefeated since late in the 1959 season, the men's golf team of the Cumberland Country Club will try to make it 15 wins in a row when they battle it out with linksmen of the Morgantown Country Club, the Preston Country Club and the Maplehurst Country Club, of Frostburg, in a quadrangular match Sunday at the Preston Country Club course at Kingwood, W. Va.

The CCC team started its victory string in 1959 by winning the last two matches of the season. Last year the Christie Roaders posted a 10-0 record and this season they have beaten Martinsburg, 21½ to 11½, and Fountain Head Country Club, Hagerstown, 50½ to 24½ in matches away from home.

With four teams battling it out for high point honors tomorrow's match should prove interesting.

The pros of the respective clubs, namely, Bob Mackintosh, Morgantown; Bob Bierry, Kingwood; and Richard Buskey, assistant at the Cumberland Country Club, will tee off at 9:45 a. m. There will be a buffet luncheon between nines.

Players will tee off at the following times:

Duren Hangs Up AL Strikeout Record

BOSTON (UPI)—Pitcher Ryne Duren, making his first start for the Los Angeles Angels, Friday night set a new American League record by striking out seven straight batters.

Duren, former New York Yankee fireballer, accomplished the feat in the second half of a two-night double-header between the Angels and the Boston Red Sox.

He started the streak with two out in the first inning by fanning Frank Malzone. Then Pete Runnels, Jim Pagliaroni and Don Buddin all took called third strikes in the second inning.

In the third inning the bespectacled righthander got Mike Fornieles, Chuck Schilling and Gary Geiger.

The streak ended as Carl Yastrzemski grounded out to third in the fourth inning.

Archie Moore To Defend Light-Heavy Title Tonight

Champ Is 8-5 Choice In Go With Rinaldi

Latter Won First Fight; Garden Bout Set For 10 EDT

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Archie Moore defends his share of the world light-heavyweight boxing title Saturday night against the triple threat of Italy's Giulio Rinaldi, old age and the scales. Old age is given the best chance of upsetting the ancient one.

With a $100,000 guarantee at stake, Moore is expected to make the 175-pound class limit even if he has to shave his whiskers. His trainer, Dick Sadler, said before leaving the Monticello, N.Y., camp that Moore was down to 176½ and would have no trouble.

Beating age may be a more difficult problem. Archie claims he is 44 but his mother says he is 47. Doubt about his strength after a long weight-reducing program has sliced the reported odds from 3-1 to 8-5, Moore favored.

Beat Moore In Rome

Rinaldi has youth on his side. The 26-year-old boxer from Anzio beat Moore in a non-title 10-round last Oct. 29 in Rome. The decision, plus the fact that Moore took a disputed eight-count while standing set up the rematch with the title at stake.

Moore's share of the title has been chipped away and now covers New York, Massachusetts and Europe. The National Boxing Association withdrew its recognition last October because of his failure to defend. Later the NBA crowned Harold Johnson.

This 15-round match in Madison Square Garden, scheduled for 9 p.m. (EST), will be carried by network (ABC) television. Under New York rules, two judges and a referee, to be named at ringside, score a fight by rounds. They use a supplementary point system in case the rounds are even.

Fighting Since 1936

Moore, a veteran of 212 pro fights dating back to 1936, holds the record for knockouts with 130. He hasn't defended in almost 22 months. Archie's career record is 181-25-6.

He has held the title longer than any other light-heavy champ. Since he won it from Joey Maxim, on Dec. 17, 1952 he has defended it eight times.

Rinaldi is a comparative novice with a 25-5 record and eight knockouts.

55 Grand Prix Veterans Enter 24-Hour Race

Moss To Head Field In Test At Le Mans

LE MANS, France (AP)—This quiet village in northern France becomes the sports car capital Saturday when 55 Grand Prix veterans begin the 24-hour Le Mans race, toughest racing grind on the international circuit.

The race was almost scrapped in 1955 when a collision sent an exploding race car hurtling into the crowd. Eighty-four persons were killed in the worst disaster in racing history.

Precautions have been taken to safeguard spectators but the drivers still face the same hazards along the twisting 8.36-mile course. Stirling Moss, Britain's ace driver, says:

"Le Mans is more dangerous than any race in the world."

The Briton is on hand for the 29th running along with other stars of the Grand Prix wars. Among them: the Rodriguez brothers of Mexico — Pedro, 21, and Ricardo, 19; Phil Hill of Santa Monica, Calif., and Ritchie Ginther of Granada Hills, Calif.; Wolfgang von Trips of Germany; Bruce McLaren of New Zealand; Maurice Trintignant of France and Sweden's bearded Joaquim Bonnier.

Mrs. Cush Cops State Golf Title

Ailing Back Forces Mrs. Glick To Quit

BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — Mrs. Frank Cush of the Argyle Club in Silver Spring won the Maryland State Women's Golf championship by default Friday when Mrs. Maurice Glick of Baltimore quit after 11 holes because of an ailing back.

Mrs. Cush had won the 10th and 11th holes to go 1 up when Mrs. Glick, who was in obvious pain, decided she could not continue.

Mrs. Glick had been under a doctor's care during the five days of the tournament and had been playing heavily taped.

The title was the third for Mrs. Cush while the default cost Mrs. Glick a chance to add a 12th state crown.

Mrs. Glick was 1 up after 9 holes with an outgoing 40 to Mrs. Cush's 41. Mrs. Glick appeared to hit a shot on one of the late holes of the front nine that aggravated her back trouble. She was hitting the long shots without too much difficulty, but short shots and putting apparently caused her considerable pain.

The University of Buffalo plans to increase the seating capacity of its football stadium this year from 10,280 to 16,280.

Savage River Water Bill Gets Approval

Tawes' Signature All Yet Needed

The General Assembly of Annapolis yesterday unanimously passed a measure which would give the Allegany County Board of Commissioners authority to issue up to $9,500,000 in bonds to finance the construction of a water transmission line from the Savage River Dam to the Cumberland area.

All the measure now needs is the signature of Governor J. Milford Tawes. That is expected Monday or Tuesday. It is considered a foregone conclusion that he will sign the bill because only measures that had his blessing were adopted in yesterday's one-day special session.

Senator Charles M. See of Allegany County introduced the Savage River Dam water bill, which was designated as Senate Bill II.

This bill was one of five local measures enacted in the speedy session yesterday.

The cost estimate on the proposed water transmission line was provided by the Baltimore engineering firm of Matz, Childs and Associates Inc. This company was hired by the county commissioners for $22,000 on May 26 to make the necessary engineering survey.

Matz, Childs and Associates Inc. came up with a figure of $9,527,000 for the cost of the transmission line. The biggest single item is $2,934,000 for a 36-inch transmission line extending almost 31 miles. The cost is for 163,000 lineal feet of pipe.

The City of Cumberland is now selling about 14 million gallons of water each day from its system in the Evitts Creek watershed. This is considered just about the maximum safe yield from the system. As a result, Water Commissioner G. Ray Light has told residential water users outside Cumberland that they can expect no more water from the city than they used in 1960.

Doctors Say: Continue Salk Shots Even If You Had Oral Vaccine

If you took the Sabin oral polio vaccine last week, you're probably immune today to Type I polio. But don't forget to continue your Salk shots, at least for this summer.

That's the advice of the Allegany-Garrett County Medical Society, which sponsored the oral vaccine program last Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The 38,126 persons who took the vaccine should now be immune to Type I polio, but they still may be susceptible to Types II and III.

After the fall, when doses of Sabin vaccine for those two types of polio will be administered here, persons who have swallowed the full course of oral vaccine should be immune to all three types of poliovirus.

Each dose of oral vaccine provides immunity to only one type of poliovirus. Each shot of Salk vaccine provides some immunity to all three types. That's why local doctors are recommending that everyone, whether or not he has started the oral vaccine, take the recommended course of four Salk shots.

After this fall, anyone who has taken all three Sabin doses should need no further vaccine of either type for an indefinite period, as the oral vaccine provides a long-lasting immunity.

Meanwhile, the State Department of Health yesterday urged everyone to take his Salk shots.

Dr. Perry F. Prather, director of the department, reminded Marylanders that their state was among those most severely struck by paralytic polio last year.

Maryland had 146 polio cases, 47 per cent of whom had not received any Salk vaccine, and only seven per cent of whom had taken the full four-shot course of Salk injections.

"Those not protecting themselves and their families are taking a needless and grave risk," he said.

RC Summer Swim Program Begins June 19

A junior and senior lifesaving course, sponsored by Allegany Chapter, American Red Cross, will begin June 19 and continue through June 30, according to Mrs. Sara Lindsay, executive secretary. This is the first scheduled class of the Red Cross summer swim program.

The two-week course, which will be held from 6 until 8 p.m. each evening, will be instructed by Mike Wanda, Andrew Petenbrink, and Roger Powers. Applicants must be from 12 to 15 years of age to qualify for the junior course and 16 years of age to qualify for the senior course.

Robert Pence is chairman of the Red Cross water safety program. The slogan for the program is "Every Child A Swimmer," and its aim to teach every child in Allegany County to swim.

Classes will be scheduled by the local chapter throughout the summer at pools in Cumberland and Frostburg. The Red Cross offers five summer courses, beginners, advance beginners, intermediate swimmers, advance swimming and lifesaving. Twenty-two qualified Red Cross instructors are available to teach these courses.

Most of the swimming pools in the area are staffed by lifeguards who are qualified Red Cross swimmers holding lifesaving certificates.

The Red Cross water safety program began in 1914. Since that time approximately 13,000,000 certificates for adults and young people have been issued.

Md. Legislature Follows Line Set By Tawes

One Departure From Timetable

By GEORGE BOWEN

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The Maryland Legislature adhered strictly to the line laid down to them Friday by Gov. Tawes and swiftly put into emergency effect the State's first regulation of savings associations and a full Baltimore Municipal Court.

The special session called by the Democratic governor spanned only about seven routine hours. A sprinkling of attempts to break up the tight administration schedule were squelched with overwhelming ease.

Grocers Convince
There was only one departure from the advance timetable and that originated within the administration itself. At the urging of Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein, all food bought to be eaten off the premises will be exempt from the sales tax.

Grocers already had convinced legislative leaders that prepared food sold by them should not be taxed.

In all, the one-day session enacted 14 bills and killed six bills before they could get off the ground.

Gov. Tawes recalled the 152 legislators to re-enact savings and loan laws they had passed at their regular session ending last March. Petitions by votes were filed to prevent them from going into effect as scheduled June 1. If the petitions are ruled sufficient and legal by the attorney general, the questions will be voted upon at the November election in 1962.

In the meantime, the bills passed Friday would be in effect. Even these are subject to court tests.

James (Jack) Pollack, Baltimore Democratic leader who acknowledged he was a supporter of the petition movements, would not say if he planned court tests. "Wait and see," he said.

Legal Question
At issue is the legal question whether a legislature may enact bills relating to the same subject petitioned to referendum.

Pollack is a political power in the fourth and fifth districts of Baltimore City. Virtually all of the ineffectual efforts to sidetrack the Tawes machine emanated from legislators in those districts.

There were only two Senate votes against the savings and loan regulations, first ever over an industry estimated to be worth $1.5 billion in Maryland. The dissenters were Paul A. Dorf and Alvin Jones of the fifth.

In the House, there were never more than 14 votes against the savings and loan or court bills.

The Tawes' lieutenants in charge of the legislature demonstrated their strength at the outset. In the Senate, they sat on two bills introduced without advance approval of the chief executive and in the House they squelched three.

Damper Applied
The potential spark-setters were the three on which the House Rules Committee put the damper. One by Del. Alexander Stark, D-Balto 5th, called for a tax on savings deposits, another by Del. Bernard M. Imber, D-Balto 4th, would have wiped out sales tax changes made at the regular session and another by Del. Samuel Linton, D-Charles, proposed to exempt cigarettes from the sales tax.

Stark's motion to force the rules committee to relinquish his bill failed 105-11. Imber's similar motion lost 86-26. Linton didn't even bother.

Imber and Alan M. Resnick, D-Balto 5th, also offered amendments from the floor to the savings and loan bill, but they received short shrift.

Del. Marvin Mandel, D-Balto 5th, made a strong floor pitch to have the court bills sent to the city delegation of which he is chairman. They stayed with the judiciary committee by a vote of 105-14 and came out of there untouched.

It took five bills to try to accomplish what the legislature intended at its regular session in replacing appointive trial magistrates with full-time, robed judges in Baltimore.

"We hope they meet legal objections and stay within the framework of the main purposes until we have a final determination," said Thomas B. Finan, attorney general.

Votes Approved
The voters approved at the polls last year the appointment of 11 judges with jurisdiction similar to the trial magistrates. The legislature added four judges, already named by Tawes, and broadened the type of criminal cases to be heard. These extensions were used as the pegs to challenge the court with petitions.

The big concession made in the new savings and loan approach was in administration. The original regulations will be in hands of the existing Department of Assessments instead of the contemplated new agency.

Beyond the court and savings bills, the legislators entertained and passed only two bills of statewide nature. One provided up to $15,000 for expenses of the extraordinary session and the other covered a categorical collection of the tax on cigarettes sold in vending machines.

Five other bills given clearance were local relating to Allegany, Washington, Dorchester and Anne Arundel counties.

Explorers On 20-Mile Canoe Trip

Thirty boys along with five adults from Post 10 Explorer Scouts, sponsored by LaVale Methodist Church, left here last night for Forks of Cacapon River where they will begin a 20-mile canoe ride early today.

The group camped out on the Loy Farm at the Forks of Cacapon overnight. This morning in 18 canoes they will begin their journey to the mouth of the Cacapon River where it joins the Potomac, and then down the Potomac to the Dillon Orchard area, where the trip will end Sunday afternoon.

William Barger and Ardell Haines will join the group at its campsite Saturday night.

The group will be picked up at Dillon Orchard on Sunday and return to Cumberland by cars.

Adults making the trip are Kenneth Stone, advisor, Robert Moreland, assistant advisor, Henry Lowery, David Whitworth and Kenneth King, fathers.

County Issues Seven Permits For Dwellings

Building permits for seven dwellings which the builders say will cost a total of $59,000 to construct have been issued by James G. Stevenson, clerk to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

George Evans, 1016 Kent Avenue, was issued a permit for a $12,000 brick dwelling he plans to construct about 400 feet off Oldtown Road in Election District 16 at North Branch. This house will be 26 by 40 feet in size.

Doyle Bittner, RFD 4, Meyersdale, Pa., was issued a permit for a 45 by 28 foot brick veneer dwelling costing $10,000, which he plans to construct in Election District 20 at Corriannville.

Joseph H. Brown, Cresaptown, obtained a permit to build a 72 by 40 foot brick dwelling in Election District 7 at Cresaptown. The estimated cost is $9,000.

Howard Perrin, RFD 2, Baltimore Pike, was issued a permit to build a 42 by 26 foot frame dwelling about 80 feet off Baltimore Pike in Election District 21 for about $9,500.

Joseph F. Reissig, LaVale Boulevard, LaVale, was issued a permit for an $8,000 brick veneer dwelling. The 30 by 42 foot dwelling will be built on Lot 81, LaVale Boulevard, in District 29.

Kenneth Keefeauver, 245 1 Avenue, Potomac Park, was issued a building permit for a $7,500 brick dwelling in Election District 6. It will be 36 by 36 feet in size.

Ervin Skidmore, Eckhart, obtained a permit to build a 30 by 36 foot frame dwelling on Parkersburg Road in Election District 24 for $3,500.

Water Leak Is Repaired

Water Department crews from the Lake Gordon filtration plant left yesterday afternoon completed the laborious job of repairing a leak in one of the 36-inch transmission lines which supply water to the City of Cumberland.

The break in the line where it was tapped to supply water to Hillcrest Burial Park was completed about 5 p.m. by a crew headed by Ray Nixon, filter plant foreman.

The job began Thursday when workers used picks and shovels to uncover the line at the break.

Mr. Nixon said there was a very heavy leak which occurred when a saddle broke loose from the line where it was tapped.

The repair job began yesterday at 5 a.m., when crews reported to the filter plant. Several hours were required to make the hundreds of turns needed to operate the valves so water could be turned off of the stretch to be repaired.

Under terms of the will, dated just two days before his death, his estate was to be divided equally among his three sisters, Miss Jeannette L. Bonig, Miss Naomi M. Bonig and Mrs. Elizabeth R. Trennary, all of Cumberland.

City Approved For Federal Assistance

U. S. Sen. John M. Butler (R, Md.) yesterday was informed by the Department of Commerce that Cumberland has been designated as a redevelopment area and has now become eligible for assistance under the Area Redevelopment Act.

The Department of Commerce cautioned the senator that designation as a redevelopment area under the act "does not mean automatic aid."

It emphasized the act specifically provides that "no such assistance be expended until there shall be submitted to and approved by the Secretary of Commerce an overall program for economic development of the area and a finding by a state, or any agency, instrumentality or local political subdivision thereof that the project for which financial assistance is sought is consistent with such program . . ."

Sen. Butler stated that Cumberland is among

"Keeping Cool" While Busy Is Cullen Philosophy

In a business known for pressure and tension, Bill Cullen is a firm believer in keeping cool.

Only this philosophy stands between Cullen and exhaustion. At present, his schedule includes the daily and Wednesday evening editions of "The Price Is Right," on NBC, an early bird disc jockey show and a regular spot on the panel of "I've Got A Secret."

"Why get excited?" asked Cullen. "If I ever start worrying, my job will be three times tougher."

Among the things Cullen doesn't worry about is rehearsals. He simply avoids them, a fact which created problems at first. "Price Is Right" stages some fairly complicated stunts, such as giving away a flock of sheep or 'flying' a ten-ton truck on wires above the stage, and these moments entail careful preparation.

Cullen solved the dilemma by hiring stand-in actor, Jim Holland, to do his rehearsing for him. While Holland is going through Cullen's paces, Bill catches up on lost sleep at his New York apartment. He shows up at the NBC studio just in time for a conference with his stand-in then goes on the air.

There are certain facts Cullen refuses to learn in advance. He never meets contestants until the program is on, and his first knowledge of the value of the prizes comes when he opens a sealed envelope on the air.

"I like surprises as much as the audience," he explained. "If I knew the answers in advance, my reaction wouldn't be spontaneous. I'd have to fake it."

While Bill is apt to kid his employers and fellow performers, he adheres to one strict rule—never make fun of a contestant.

"When people come on the show, they're usually excited and somewhat scared," Bill explained. "All of a sudden, they've got a million eyes on them. It's my job to put them at ease and relieve the tension, to help them do their best."

Bill's consideration for others may stem from his own difficult youth. Struck by polio as an infant, he can't remember what it was like to walk without limping. But, rather than brood about the misfortune, he simply refused to accept it. He became a midget racer, and later, after teaching himself to fly, joined the Civil Defense air auxiliary.

"I've been pretty fortunate," said Cullen, referring to the handicap. "The only time I notice it now is when others do. I'd rather not have people who see me limp show pity or distress. I don't feel badly about it, so why should they?"

Cullen's easy-going attitude toward life is reflected off-stage, as well as on. He'll work like a dog during the week, but Saturdays and Sundays are set aside for his wife, Anne.

"We take on projects together," Bill explained. "Like painting. Anne's great, but I'm just a dabbler. We also have a lot of fun making mosaics out of match book covers. Not any cover, but just from places we've visited."

Currently, Bill is setting himself for next season. He'll continue with "The Price Is Right" and "I've Got A Secret," but plans to give up the disc jockey shows in September. This will free him for additional television work and also provide the unexpected luxury of regular sleeping habits.
